

VIADUCT AT ROSE STREET ORDER OF RATE COMMISSION ROAD DRAWS PLAN

Second Order of Board Is for Location of Crossing as Directed the First Time

EXPENSE TO THE CITY CUT DOWN

Railway to Pay 60 Per Cent, Street Car Company 15 and the City of La Crosse 25

CHOICE BETWEEN TWO PLANS

Subway at Mill and Overhead at Rose Street Were Two Favored by the Commission

The railroad commission today directed that a viaduct, or overhead bridge, be constructed across the tracks of the St. Paul railroad at Rose street. Of the total cost of the structure 60 per cent shall be paid by the railroad company; 25 per cent by the city of La Crosse, and 15 per cent by the Wisconsin Railway, Light and Power company. Nine months is deemed a reasonable time within which to comply with the order.

The plans for the entire work shall be prepared by the St. Paul company and shall be submitted to the commission for approval before the work is commenced. The construction of the viaduct and its approaches, including filling and grading, shall be done by the St. Paul company. The city of La Crosse must do all that part of the work necessary by the order that is not specifically laid upon the St. Paul company. The viaduct will cost about $83,000.

City officials today are jubilant over the saving that has been made for the city by the last decision. The first decision, it was claimed, called for an expensive viaduct and the city, figured by experts, would have to pay approximately $149,000 of the sum. The Milwaukee road was to pay the rest while the street car company escaped with no expenditure.

Attorney J. E. Higbee, believing the amount apportioned to the city to be too great, petitioned that the case be re-opened. His request was granted and the evidence submitted by him at the second hearing cut the city's share of the expense to $20,000.

The complete decision follows:

In reviewing the facts the commission points out that the following were the six solutions of the north side traffic problem offered at the recent hearings here:

Six Solutions Offered

- 1—Renew the Rose street viaduct with a permanent structure designed to accommodate the street railway and with easy approach grades to attract vehicular traffic. This is the remedy already ordered by the commission.
- 2—Construct a subway at Rose street.
- 3—Construct a viaduct at Mill street.
- 4—Construct a subway at Mill street, raising the railroad tracks four feet above their present elevation at that street.
- 5—Make a general raise of track on the C. M. & St. P. railway and construct subways at Mill street, Caledonia street, Avon street and Berlin street.
- 6—Change the line of the C. M. & St. P. railway to a position south of the present location, crossing the bottom of the La Crosse river and avoiding all of the present crossings with the streets. Mill street would be crossed at a point south of the present crossing and at that point a subway would be provided.

The subway at Rose street plan is dismissed with the claim that Mill street is the natural place for an underground crossing.

The plan for a viaduct at Mill street meets with little favor by the commission because of the fact that property would be damaged and the site does not present the natural advantages that are to be had at Rose street.

The commission contends that there is little to recommend in the plan to re-locate the C. M. & St. P. tracks. The cost would be enormous, it is contended, and would involve work that is not practical.

Track Elevation Too Costly

Aside from the Rose street viaduct plan the general track elevation seems to have appealed to the commission as a logical remedy.

"It would be the proper method to adopt if conditions justified the expense that would be involved," says the commission.

"This scheme was investigated by the engineering staff of this commission and the following statement is taken from the report made upon the matter:

"The plan is feasible but is not to be recommended at the

NAVAJOS DEFY U. S. PREPARE FOR WAR

Chief Medicine Man Says They Will Not Surrender and War Dances Keep Up

JUDGE TRIES TO PACIFY THEM

Sends Medicine Men Who Have Been Paroled Back to Them to Attempt to Make Peace

SANTA FE, N. M., Nov. 20.—"We will fight. We will never surrender."

This was the message sent to the government today by Be Shio She, chief medicine man of the Navajos, who is leading the revolt of Indians camped on Beautiful Mountain. All night long signal fires blazed from the mountain and the war dances of the tribe were continued.

Although settlers say the presence of troops is necessary, United States Judge Pope is trying peaceful means. Three medicine men recently arrested on charge of rioting, were released by Pope on suspended sentences, promising to go to Beautiful Mountain and induce the other medicine men to surrender. They started today. The government's determination to abolish bigamy among the tribesmen caused the uprising.

A dispatch from Farmington, N. M., this afternoon said the renegade Indians had sent runners throughout the reservation during the night, hoping to arouse the three thousand other Navajos to rebellion.

Settlers living in the vicinity are in a state of panic, fearing the Navajos will open a campaign of pillage and massacre before troops enroute from Fort Robinson, Neb., can arrive. All settlements are heavily guarded.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Nov. 20.—That the killing of W. Putnam Cramer, Cramer magazine solicitor, was an accident, will be the defense of Dr. William T. Elam, St. Joseph, Mo., physician, was indicated by both Elam's attorney and the physician himself today.

"I am sure that my wife was not guilty of any actual wrong-doing with Cramer," said Elam today, "but beyond that I will say nothing. When the case comes to trial there will be another version of what actually happened in Cramer's room that has not been told."

CHICAGO, Nov. 20.—The body of W. Putnam Cramer, shot and killed by Dr. William T. Elam in Kansas City, reached Chicago today. Relatives of Cramer are enroute here from Westfield, N. J., to make funeral arrangements. Mrs. Cramer, an invalid, is under the care of a physician.

CONVICT PAIR OF PLAYING FRAUD ON MRS. M'ELDOWNEY

Barney Bertsche and James Ryan Found Guilty Today in Chicago

West Salem Widow Casts Meaning Glance in Direction of Ex-Fiance

MAY GET FIFTEEN YEAR TERMS

Are Found Guilty of Working Confidence Game but Freed of Larceny

Barney Bertsche, republican politician, and James Ryan, alias "Professor" Charles T. Crane, a clairvoyant, were found guilty today of swindling Mrs. Hope McEldowney, West Salem, out of $15,000. The sealed verdict was reached shortly after midnight and read when court convened in Chicago today.

Bertsche and Ryan were the first of the men indicted in the clairvoyant "trust" investigation to go to trial. Ryan, the state charged, induced Mrs. McEldowney, a wealthy widow, to entrust her bank book to him through professions of love, automobile rides and a proposal of marriage. Bertsche was accused of having accepted protection money from members of the "trust," acting as a go-between with protected clairvoyants and police officials whose names were not brought out.

Mrs. Eldowney, in a neatly tailored suit and wearing a large bunch of violets, was in court when the verdict was read. She listened intently and then cast a meaning smile at Ryan, who she admitted on the witness stand captured both her love and her bank-roll.

Both men were found guilty on counts charging practicing a confidence game, and not guilty on charges of larceny and conspiracy. The confidence game conviction carries with it imprisonment for a maximum term of fifteen years. Sentence will not be imposed until a motion for a new trial has been disposed of.

FORESTERS' CHIEF REBUFS H. L. EKERN

Wisconsin Insurance Commissioner Offers Hand to Stevenson, Who Refuses It with Insult

CHICAGO, Nov. 20.—Herman L. Ekern, Wisconsin's insurance commissioner, received a rebuff today from Elliott G. Stevenson, supreme chief ranger of the Independent Order of Foresters, when the hearing on the order's rate plan began here today. Stevenson refused to shake hands with Ekern, and further ruffled the commissioner's feeling by informing him he was a "man whom I heartily despise and a public official who had been most arrogant in your abuse of petty power."

Ekern, with State Insurance Commissioner Potts of Illinois, called the hearing of the Forester officials to determine whether the order would adopt Ekern's plan of "more equitable rate assessments."

A. E. Stevenson, United States manager of the Foresters, branded false the rumors that his organization was in financial troubles.

"We were never in any difficulties, financially. We have $20,000,000 in the treasury today. Of the 243,000 members, 160,000 are now on an adequate rate. Ekern's hobby will never be adopted."

MEXICAN CRISIS APPROACHES AS CONGRESS MEETS

HUERTA CHEERS AMERICAN AIR

Embraces O'Shaughnessy and Leads Cheers When "Star Spangled Banner" Is Played

WASHINGTON MEN ARE SILENT

Officials of This Country Say Nothing and Await Developments in the South

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 20.—General Huerta today allowed his adherents to believe that he possesses information that the powers of Europe will support him in his stand against President Wilson, and that this is the reason for the dispatch to Vera Cruz of the British West Indian squadron from Barbadoes.

The dictator is trying to give the Mexican people the impression that the British cruisers coming to oppose the American warships.

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 20.—As the hour approached for the formal opening of the Mexican congress that might easily bring on the apprehended international crisis, Mexico City today was filled with reports of a violent quarrel between General Huerta the provisional president, and General Blanquet, his minister of war.

The dictator and Blanquet were reported to be at loggerheads over almost every phase of government policy and an open breach between them was regarded as a possibility. This would be a serious complication, at a critical time.

Huerta Explains Conduct

A member of Huerta's staff gave to the foreign correspondents advance copies of what purported to be the speech Huerta would deliver to congress. The address first of all is a defense of Huerta's course as provisional president. He tells his reasons for dissolving the last congress and assuming the dictatorship. He says that his country faced a crisis which only force and determination could avert.

The speech makes no direct reference to the United States or any other foreign power. It concludes: "Messrs. Senators and Deputies, this is a most solemn moment in every aspect and one that is likely to prove decisive for the future of the nation. Not only the eyes of 15,000,000 Mexicans but those of the whole civilized world are at this time watching us. Your attitude and your actions shall proclaim to your compatriots and to coming generations whether we have been in the right when we have insisted on our nationality above the paltry interests of the moment, or if, on the contrary instead of devoting ourselves to this task of supreme national effort, we should have bent before damnable interests and niggardly ambitions."

Huerta Cheers American Air

The reception at Chapultepec castle, given by General and Senora Huerta furnished considerable food for speculation. After the Mexican national anthem, "The Star Spangled Banner," was played, and General Huerta led the cheering. All of the diplomatic corps were present, including Charge and Mrs. O'Shaughnessy. Huerta was effusive in his greeting to O'Shaughnessy, and when the American national air was played, embraced the charge.

Afterward Huerta proposed a toast to the "People of the United States," and his emphasis left the inference that he did not include the United States government.

The caterers bill for the reception was $20,000. The Mexican government is supposed to be bankrupt.

Heavy Cotton Tax

A government decree issued today placed a tax of eight centavos on domestic cotton. The explanation given was that the money is needed to defray the expenses of extensive military operations necessary to transport cotton from the rebel-infested Laguna district, near Torreón. The tax is to be paid by the growers and cotton goods manufactured on the plantations is exempted.

General Telles of Huerta's party announced he would send a complaint to Washington against United States Consul Hanna at Monterey. He charged that Hanna has been favoring the constitutionalists.

WAS ON UTILITIES COMMISSION

Senator Denies All Knowledge of Letters and Says Someone Is Trying Joke

CHICAGO, Nov. 20.—Sensational evidence purporting to disclose that a threat was made to force the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy railroad company into the hands of receivers unless an annual pass over its lines was issued to State Senator John T. Denvir, a member of the Illinois legislative public utilities commission, was introduced at a hearing in the federal building yesterday before A. G. Guthrie, an examiner for the interstate commerce commission.

It was the first of a series of surprises which the commission has promised in connection with a statewide inquiry into alleged blackmailing attacks on railways' violations of the interstate commerce law through the issuance of free transportation and the misuse of passes by persons entitled under the law to receive them. It developed that government agents for more than a year have been making a secret inquiry in Illinois into the pass question and have prepared scores of reports for use of the commission.

Letters are Introduced

Two letters purporting to have been written by Senator Denvir to Chester M. Dawes, general counsel for the Burlington, were introduced before Examiner Guthrie, as well as replies made to them by Mr. Dawes. The more startling of the communications was on stationery of the Illinois legislative public utilities commission and was written on January 18, 1913. It is as follows:

"Dear Friend Dawes: I regret exceedingly to acknowledge receipt of your letter in which you refuse me annual transportation over your lines in Illinois. As chairman of the public utilities commission you can look for legislation that will work hardship on your company, and I wish to assure you that when our commission gets through with you that you will find your road in the hands of a receiver, for you certainly are violating the laws of the state in a great many respects, and we know it, but have gone along and been friendly to you; but inasmuch as you are inclined to be so diplomatic in your statement that you would not like to violate the custom you have indulged in, I feel inclined to think that a little resolution with respect to a committee for a thorough investigation of your gross negligence with regard to your methods of procedure will be well to adopt at the next meeting of the senate. Hoping that you can see fit to favor our commission's request, I am, as ever, faithfully yours,

JOHN T. DENVIR."

Senator Denvir testified that he did not write the letter and declared that "somebody has been trying to play a joke." He admitted, however, that he had applied to several other railroads for passes.

100 More Persons Volunteer to Circulate Petitions for Pardon

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 20.—With new interest aroused by a mass meeting held here last night, 100 additional petitions asking that the board of pardons commute the death sentence of Mrs. Bessie Wakefield, "the woman who never had a chance," were being circulated here today. Of the men and women attending the meeting, 100 volunteered to circulate petitions in behalf of the young woman now under sentence to be hanged for the murder of her husband.

One of the hardest workers in the gathering of names for the petitions today was Mrs. George Redding. Mrs. Redding's son George was hanged October 30, 1911, for the murder of Morris Greenburg. Mrs. Redding attended the meeting last night with her husband, and will throw all her efforts into a fight to save Mrs. Wakefield.

A CO-OPERATIVE PACKING HOUSE BIG CONVENTION PROBLEM HERE

BOYD IN MINNEAPOLIS TODAY

Invited to make Speech Explaining Plan to Minnesota Society of Equity Convention

UTERMOEHL AIDS IN PREPARATION

Board of Trade Secretary Arranging for Accommodations for Over 500 Who Will Attend

Andrew Boyd, of the packing house firm of Langdon & Boyd, is in Minneapolis today, at the request of the Minnesota officials of the American Society of Equity, and will deliver an address at the state convention upon the subject of co-operative packing plants.

Just prior to leaving Mr. Boyd received an urgent inquiry from M. W. Tubbs, secretary and treasurer of the society, regarding the housing of the delegates at the forthcoming equity convention in this city. Mr. Tubbs also wrote John Utermoehl, secretary of the board of trade, asking for information and that he lend aid in arranging for the crowd, which will include over 500 male delegates and a large attendance of women's auxiliaries.

Secretary Tubbs, in his letter to Mr. Boyd, said the state board of directors were "deeply interested" in the plan to start the first plant of the proposed packing house system in La Crosse.

In a letter which Mr. Boyd has received from Ira M. Chryst, president, the latter says that following a conference with Vice President Carnahan, he was taking the co-operative plan up with the Minnesota society, with a view to starting the work there also. In this letter, speaking of the co-operative plan, President Chryst writes:

"This is certainly the only solution of the meat proposition in this country."

Secretary Utermoehl is making ample plans for taking care of the big convention when it meets here December 4, 5 and 6.

Mr. Carnahan is quoted as having said that plans for the packing house plan will be the most absorbing business before the convention.

THE TRIBUNE'S Daily Short Story

Captain Scott's Caution

By MOLLY McMASTER.
(Copyright, 1913, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

Nida was on her way to meet the man who had been selected by two families as her future husband. She was not especially excited nor did she feel even a tinge of romance. Nida had come to the conclusion that one man would suit her matrimonially about as well as another.

"I will no doubt like Philip, and get on as amicably with him as I would with others whom I have met." Nida was very young to have formed so unsentimental a thought, yet out of the numerous men she had known there was not one who had made the blood quicken in her veins or brought a droop to her lashes.

Marriage did not exactly appeal to her, but she felt it more or less of a duty. It was clearly out of duty to her parents that she was on the great liner Rolympia bound for Queens-town and thence to Belfast. It was in Belfast Nida was to meet Philip.

Rather than cross from Liverpool in the smaller boats Nida had boarded the Rolympia with the passengers booked to New York.

As the ship ploughed out through the Mersey and along the rugged Welsh coast Nida wished with all her might that she were one of those fortunate passengers who would not have to get off in the tender at Queenstown, but could continue over to New York. Never had she been able to afford the long ocean trip, much as she loved the water.

When the sea began to rise angrily Nida heard a voice at her side say: "If this weather continues we will not stop for the passengers at Queenstown. I crossed once before when there were thirty of them left to sail on a later boat."

Nida caught a swift breath. For the second her blood seemed to stop in its course. "Not stop at Ireland! Impossible!"

And yet that was exactly what happened. Capt. Scott refused to risk three thousand lives and his own reputation for cautious sailing. There was a heavy sea and there was far too much danger to attempt to transfer either people or mail from the tender to the Rolympia. Nor could rage or tears dissuade Capt. Scott from his sense of safety.

In consequence there were fifty-odd infuriated persons waiting at the quay in Queenstown, their luggage in many instances having gone aboard the Rolympia at Liverpool. Also there were perhaps ten persons who would have to cross the ocean when they had embarked for the short trip to Queenstown.

Nida was at first completely upset. When she learned of the nine others on board who were in the same predicament, and some of them giving way to towering rage. Nida began to see the humor as well as the undoubted joy of the experience. She, who could not possibly have taken an ocean voyage on her limited finances, was being taken over to New York as the guest of the Rolympia. The company would be compelled to pay her way back. Nida smiled. She happened to be standing by the young man who had predicted the nonstopping of the boat.

arded by way of beginning the ship-board friendliness, "but mighty tough on those who are stung!"

"Stung!" murmured Nida questioningly.

"Left behind," explained the man whom Nida found extremely good to look upon. She laughed.

"I am one of them," she said naively, "and I am so delighted I could dance and sing right here on the deck!"

"By Jove! No—is that right? Have you got any clothes?" A dull color mounted his temples when he saw the pink in Nida's cheeks. "I was going to say," he added quickly, "that it is going to be cold crossing."

He paused a moment while his clear eyes swept Nida from head to foot. "I am taking my sister a bunch of clothes from Paris and London—could you?"

"You are entirely too kind," laughed Nida more or less embarrassed. "I fortunately have a large Gladstone bag with me."

"Well—if you require a coat—I have a dandy fur one for Sis." He glanced at the soft bronze of Nida's hair and continued as if in appeal to her vanity. "It is brown fur and your hair would look like a bunch of rioting sunbeams above it."

Nida blushed outright and James Guthrie smiled. Somehow he could not feel that the slip of a girl beside him was other than an old friend. Perhaps it was her lack of a protector that made him feel so, and it might have been merely the wistful charm of Nida's smile.

"Have you any one to whom you want to send a wireless?" he asked, with thoughtful promptness.

"My family and a man whom I expect to marry are waiting for me in Queenstown," admitted Nida. "But they will know the circumstances by this time."

"Give me the name. I will send a message anyway," Guthrie suggested. And when Nida had complied he went off and she was left to ruminate on the strange destinies of human beings. She was not left long alone either at the moment or through the voyage. James Guthrie fell completely in love and proposed to Nida the fourth day out. She had succumbed to his pleading and had worn the fur coat and other necessities from his sister's wardrobe, but she had not as yet given her heart to his keeping. There were others on the boat who would have taken her from Guthrie had he been the kind of man to let anything out of his keeping when he wanted it as deeply as he wanted Nida.

"I will tell you what we will do," he suggested on the last night before reaching New York. "I will take you home with me to visit the mater and all the family. I am only going to be in America a few days and we could be hitched up and sail back on our honeymoon when the Rolympia goes."

"Hitched up!" Again Nida raised questioning eyes to Guthrie's. He laughed and drew her arm close within his own as they promenaded the deck.

"Hitch up, dear, means married—married so that no one can take you from me. Tell me you love me, dear, do."

Nida became conscious with startling suddenness that she did love the man beside her; that all other men had been mere shadows, and that should she lose him her life would be a blank. She laughed a trifle hysterically at the very thought.

Guthrie slipped his arm about her because he felt her trembling. "Your dear eyes are telling me," he said softly.

HIS COURT ROOM NOT A BOUDOIR

CHEYENNE, Wyo., Nov. 20.—"This is a court room, not a boudoir," interrupted Judge J. A. Riner yesterday, when Mrs. Joseph L. Wier, wife of an army lieutenant, through her attorney, offered to try on several dresses which she is charged with having stolen from the wife of an army captain. Mrs. Wier expected to prove that the dresses did not fit her, and that she would have had no motive for stealing them. A crowded court room exhibited disappointment when the judge rejected the offer.

BOY GETS COPS AFTER BURGLAR

MILWAUKEE, Nov. 20.—After a man hunt that continued all night on Milwaukee's fashionable east side, police and sheriff's officers had found no trace of the burglar who looted the home of H. L. Morawetz and escaped with jewelry valued at $5,000.

WORDS FROM HOME

Statements That May Be Investigated. Testimony of La Crosse Citizens

When a La Crosse citizen comes to the front, telling his friends and neighbors of his experience, you can rely on his sincerity. The statements of people residing in far away places do not command your confidence. Home endorsement is the kind that backs Doan's Kidney Pills. Such testimony is convincing. Investigation proves it true. Below is a statement of a La Crosse resident. No stronger proof of merit can be had.

Mrs. D. H. Yonkers, 320 Main St., La Crosse, Wis., says: "I had a hard, dull backache, together with pains. I often felt drowsy and had dizzy headaches. When I lifted, or did any hard work, or caught cold, the complaint was worse. I used Doan's Kidney Pills and got relief. Should I ever have any kidney trouble again, I would certainly use Doan's Kidney Pills."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Morawetz's fifteen year old son discovered the burglar at work, notified the police and took part in the man hunt.

Of course one has been hearing things all one's life, but did one ever hear of a family that moved out of a house and left it clean?

Jennie Could Answer.

Daddy's Bedtime Story

Jennie Knew How to Make Stew.

DADDY smiled sweetly as Jack and Evelyn leaned over the arm of his chair.

"And, now, what may you two be wanting?" he asked in his most provoking manner.

"We want our story, of course," was the severe answer. "It's our bedtime, and you know you said that little boys and girls always go to bed on time."

"Did I say anything so mean as that?" exclaimed daddy guiltily. "Well, I'm likely to forget many things that I've said."

"But, of course, we'll have tonight's story right away. And let me see what I'll talk about. Oh, yes, I know; I'll tell you a little story about our friends Johnny and Jennie, the twins."

"You know, Johnny and Jennie are the same age. They look so much alike that if Jennie wore knickerbockers you would take her for Johnny, and if Johnny wore skirts you would think he was Jennie."

"They are both in the same room at school, and when Johnny misses a question Jennie is always tickled to be able to answer it."

"It has never been quite settled which is the cleverer. Johnny can spell better than Jennie, and Jennie is a little quicker than he is in numbers."

"One day Miss Small, their teacher, gave Johnny a little sum in addition. He had often solved harder ones, but there was something about this question Johnny just couldn't work out."

"Miss Small believed in making the lessons interesting for the children, so she said:

"Now, Johnny, suppose your mother sent you to the store to buy two pounds and a half of beef, two pounds and a half of potatoes, a pound of carrots, a pound of turnips, a pound of tomatoes and half a pound of onions. What would you have?"

"Johnny sighed and shook his head. Really he could not tell. Jennie had been watching her brother eagerly, and when he gave up the problem her little hand went up in the air and was waved wildly until Miss Small saw it."

"Well, Jennie, can you answer?" she asked. And she smiled, for she knew how one twin liked to get ahead of the other.

"Mary smiled back. She was quite sure she knew the right answer. She had just begun to take cooking lessons, and she felt that there was a question which a little girl could answer better than a little boy."

"Yes; I know," Jennie replied breathlessly. "Beef stew is what he would have if he added these together. And be sure to put in the pepper and salt, Miss Small, or you'll spoil the stew."

performing new functions and taking on new activities. The interesting question arises as to just how far the people wish to have the state go in these respects. It may be that they believe their representatives have gone too far. It may be that they wish to call a halt.

On the other hand, if people want all kinds of things done by the state, they must be willing to bear the expense. The enactment of a workmen's compensation act, for instance, involves expense inasmuch as machinery for administering such a law must be provided. Is the cost in one way the road to greater saving in another? Then there is the state railroad commission. It costs money—in fact, it costs well toward $100,000 a year. Is the net result of its work to save money to the people of the state, and if so, how much? Then there is the state tax commission, which also costs money. What is the sum of its achievements? There is the state university, which is supported far more generously than it was a few years ago. To what extent has it assisted the state along the lines of material progress? To what extent has it benefited the state by promoting the higher things of life?

We simply ask these questions and do not attempt to answer them. One or two points, however, we wish to raise in the public mind. How does the annual cost of administering the workmen's compensation act compare with the total sum that workmen yearly paid to attorneys in personal injury cases under the old system? How does the cost of maintaining the state railroad commission compare with the saving effected through the reduction of freight and passenger rates and of public utility rates generally—through the avoidance of excessive rates which were more than possible under the old system? How does the cost of maintaining the state tax commission compare with the additions to the state's tax income through the equalization of assessments, the unearthing of property not taxed before and the adoption in general of more scientific methods of assessing and taxing property and of collecting taxes?

The complaint in regard to higher taxes involve no charges of graft or of theft of public funds. The measure of efficiency in administration may not be all that is desired, but the fact remains that the choice of the people lies between going back to nineteenth century ideals of government, under which expenses could be reduced considerably, or of increasing the functions of government in accordance with what many people believe are twentieth century ideas, which necessitate greater expenses.

BIG EATERS GET KIDNEY TROUBLE

Take Salts at first sign of Bladder irritation or Backache.

The American men and women must guard constantly against kidney trouble, because we eat too much and all our food is rich. Our blood is filled with uric acid which the kidneys strive to filter out, they weaken from overwork, become sluggish; the eliminative tissues clog and the result is kidney trouble, bladder weakness and a general decline in health.

When your kidneys feel like lumps of lead; your back hurts or the urine is cloudy, full of sediment or you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night; if you suffer with sick headache or dizzy, nervous spells, acid stomach, or you have rheumatism when the weather is bad get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate clogged kidneys; to neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure, makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water beverage, and belongs in every home, because nobody can make a mistake by having a good kidney flushing any time. Chas. A. Benschlag, Druggist, 503 Main St.

Daily University Bulletin

MADISON, Wis., Nov. 20.—To make the best gains, sheep when brought into winter quarters, should be kept separate from lambs, rams and the feeding flock. Weak, thin ewes should be separately yarded so that they may get their share of the feed. Rams should be kept in lots of ample size so as to allow them plenty of exercise.

By taking these precautions and regularly providing the flocks with suitable feed and an abundance of fresh water and by sheltering them in clean, well ventilated quarters, success in sheep husbandry is insured, according to Frank Kleinheinz, shepherd of the Wisconsin experiment station flocks.

Choice of feeds depends to a large extent upon the condition in which the breeding flocks enter winter quarters. If in good flesh and having access to good roughage, such as clover, millet, alfalfa hay and roots or corn silage, hardly any grain is necessary, but if the sheep are in a thin, weak condition, no time should be lost in supplying them with hearty grain rations. Otherwise results at lambing time will be disappointing. Pure water should be supplied the flock at all times, and salt should be kept where the sheep may have ready access to it. Successful flockmasters consider it a serious mistake to provide their sheep with salt but occasionally, for under these conditions they are apt to eat too much, which often times causes excessive drinking of water and a derangement of digestive organs.

The Reason

William J. Burns, at a banquet in New York, told a number of detective stories.

"And then there was Lecoq," said Mr. Burns. "Lecoq, late one night, was pursuing his homeward way when from a dark, mysterious-looking house set in a weedgrown garden, he heard loud shouts and roars of 'Murder! Oh, heavens! Help! You're killing me! Murder!'"

"It was the work of an instant for Lecoq to vault the crumbling fence, tear through the weedy garden and thunder at the door of the mysterious house.

"A young woman appeared. 'What?' wanted? she asked politely.

"I heard dreadful cries and yells," panted Lecoq. "Tell me what is wrong."

"The young girl blushed and answered with an embarrassed air. 'Well, sir, if you must know, ma's putting a patch on pa's trousers and he's got 'em on.'"

Willie Becomes William

"What is your name, my little man?"

"Willie when I'm good and William when father thrashes me."

"How old are you?"

"Ask ma."

"Where do you live?"

"At home."

"You look like a bright boy."

"Rather! I should think I was, and don't you forget it."

"Don't you think that so bright a boy ought to be more mannerly?"

"Now, look here, I'm all right, I am, an' I ain't goin' to let no old duffer pump me on private matters. By-bye!"

And the precocious child put his hands in his pockets and strolled down the street, whistling ragtime. He kind told gentleman happened to The kind old gentleman happened to be from a long residence abroad, and when Willie got home that night his name was William.—Toronto Globe.

"Really I don't know; probably my father."

So Sweet

Sunday passed, Tuesday rolled around, and still his tall form did not loom in the vestibule when the cuckoo clock was sounding 8. Thursday he came, and the beautiful girl was burning with wrath.

"So this is the way you neglect me," she hissed. "What have you to say for yourself? Why didn't you come?"

"I couldn't," faltered the young man. "I had dyspepsia and the doctor advised me not to come."

"What? The doctor told you not to come to see me because you had dyspepsia?"

"Well, he told me to keep away from all sweets."

And the parlor sofa was tenanted.

An Englishman, on holidays, was driving around the County Tipperary one warm day, when he came across a farmer setting potatoes. Thinking of having a joke with him, he began:

"Well, Pat, what are you planting?"

"Praties, sir," said Pat.

"Do you think potatoes will come up?" asked the Englishman.

"Of course," said Pat.

"Why, I set onions last year in our garden and carrots came up," said the Englishman.

"Oh!" said Pat; "I set an acre of turnips last year in that field over there, and do you know what came up?"

"No," replied the Englishman.

"Mike Murphy's old black donkey and ate them all," answered Pat.

The Marshal

The letter went on with reproaches and regrets and finally slipped into a tale of a new happy life which Francois had made possible for the two. He read it over several times. His letter to Alixe, which should have been sent only after his death, had gone to her. What then? She would know that he loved her, that he had loved her always, that he would love her forever; that the one wish of his life had been that she should love him—Pietro. He had said that in the letter; that was all. He was glad that she should know, though he would never have told her in life. It was done and he would find out now if Pietro indeed cared for her, if she cared for Pietro. And if not, then one had waited long enough; then at last—the joy of the thought, choked him. Through the years of renunciation that hope had not died. And now his letter had gone and the consequences must follow—after the fight. Everything must go till after the fight. Alixe had not had the letter before he saw her, this last time in Viques; he was sure of that as he thought back and remembered each word, each look of those short hours. But she would have it soon; in fact she had it now likely; his heart beat fast—she knew now that he loved her.

A knock came at the door of the room in the London lodging where he sat with Lucy Hampton's letter before him. Fritz Rickenbach stood there; his Highness would like to see the Chevalier. All personal thoughts were locked swiftly into the drawer with Lucy's letter and "the Prince's bright shadow" went to the Prince.

CHAPTER XXXVII

The Third Wish.

On the day when Francois in London read that letter of Lucy Hampton's which had awaited his return from France, a letter from Lucy Hampton reached Alixe at the chateau of Viques. She carried it to Pietro's room where he sat in a deep chair at a window which looked over Delesmontes Valley and the racing Cheulte River, and the village strung on the shores. His elbow on the stone window-sill, his chin in his hand, he stared at the familiar picture.

Alixe, coming in without knocking at the open door, stepped across and stood by him, and he did not yet lift his head, his listless eyes did not yet shift their gaze from the broad landscape. Alixe, looking down at the black head with its short curls set in thick locks—after the manner of the curls of Praxiteles' Hermes—was startled to see many bright lines of gray through the dark mass. Was everybody getting old? Francois with the broad band of white in his hair—and now Pietro—big little Pietro, who had come to them and learned to ride Coq and played with them. Was Pietro getting old and gray?

By one of the sudden impulses characteristic of her, her hand flew out and rested on the curly head as if to protect it, motherly, from the whitening of time.

And Pietro turned slowly and looked up at her with eyes full of hopefulness and adoration. Such a look he had never before given her; such a look no one could mistake except a woman who would not let herself understand.

"It is good to be up and at the window, isn't it?" Alixe spoke cheerfully, and her hand left his head and she went on in a gay disengaged tone. "You will be down-stairs in two or three days now, and then it is only a jump to being out and about, and then—then in a minute you will be well again."

"Oh, yes, Pietro answered without animation. "It will not be long before I am well."

"Look, Pietro," Alixe held out the paper in her hand. "Such a queer letter! From Virginia. From the little Lucy Hampton of whom Francois talks. I don't understand it. Will you let me read it to you?"

"Surely," said Pietro, and waited with his unsmiling eyes on her face.

"My dear Mademoiselle," Alixe read. "I am writing to beg your forgiveness, as I have begged that of the Chevalier Beaupre, for the very great fault I have committed. The Chevalier trusted to me a letter for you which was to have been sent you only in case of a certain event, by a carelessness which, unmeant as it was, I shall never forgive myself. I gave it with other letters to our negro Sambo to be posted at once. By now it may have reached you. I can not tell if I have made trouble or not, but in any case, I can not rest without saying to you—as well as to the Chevalier—how sorry I am. If you can find it in your heart to forgive me, please do so, dear Mademoiselle. That I should have made trouble for one as dear to the Chevalier as you are is a deep grief to me. He has talked to me of you. With a very earnest prayer again for your forgiveness I am, Mademoiselle, yours faithfully and sincerely—Lucy Hampton Hampton."

Pietro looked bewildered. "What is it about?" he asked.

"I wonder," and Alixe laughed and frowned at the paper in her hand. "It seems Francois wrote me a letter and left it with little Mistress Hampton to be sent in case of a certain event! What event? What a strange thing for Francois to do! And then he came to us here and said nothing of mysterious letters left cooking in Virginia. I can not make it out, Pietro—can you?"

"Not I," said Pietro.

"The letter of Francois has not come; that is certain. I wonder if the negro Sambo lost it."

"Probably," Pietro said. "It should have come before this one, otherwise."

"It is a riddle," Alixe decided, "and I never guess them." Then, dropping into a seat on the wide window-sill, "Pietro—you are letting yourself be depressed."

The gray eyes met hers with something that seemed a wall of reserve in their steady glance. "I think possibly I miss having no exercise," he said. "I will feel more natural when I can get about."

Alixe looked at him. "You are eating your heart out to be with Francois," she said, and laid her hand on his.

JOURNAL'S VIEW OF STATE TAXES

A highly esteemed reader inquires whether the motive of the article on state taxes which was published in The Journal Thursday was to "let the state administration down easy." Decidedly not. The article was published to give the public as much light as could be obtained. There was no intention of criticising the state administration nor of defending it. The idea was simply to publish the facts.

One plain fact is that last year, right on the eve of a critical campaign, most of the state taxes were remitted, while this year, after that election, an unusually large amount of state taxes has been levied. Criticism of the remission of so large a part of state taxes last year seems to be just. In other words, there is good ground for entertaining the belief that the remission of taxes last year, which has resulted in a depleted state treasury, was done for political effect.

A far more important fact, however, is that the expenses of state government have greatly increased during recent years and that they continue to increase. It is very obvious, moreover, that the state is

"GETS-IT" Is a Wonder for Corns

No Fuss, No Pain, Sure and Quick. Nothing Like It. "GETS-IT" Them Every Time.

You never used anything like "GETS-IT" for corns, before! You're sure at last that every stubborn corn that you've tried so long to get rid of is a "goner." You apply "GETS-IT" in 2 seconds, that's all. "GETS-IT" does the rest. There's no more fussing, no more bandages to fix, no more salves to turn the flesh red and raw. No more plasters to get misplaced and press on the corn. No more "pulling," no more pain, no more picking and gouging, no more razors.

"Nobody Knows How Good I Feel. Corns Are Gone At Last 'GETS-IT' Did It!"

"GETS-IT" stops pain, shrivels up the corn, and the corn vanishes. "GETS-IT" never fails, is harmless to healthy flesh. Warts, calluses and bunions disappear.

"GETS-IT" is sold at drug stores at 25c a bottle, or sent on receipt of price by E. Lawrence & Co., Chicago.

How To Stop Falling Hair; Grow New Hair

You, Yourself, at home, can mix the best remedy for most hair and scalp troubles.

To stop falling hair, destroy dandruff, invigorate the scalp, make new hair grow (even on bald spots), kill all scalp germs, and make your hair soft, fluffy and lustrous, get from your druggist and mix the following ingredients:

- 6 ounces bay rum
- 2 ounces lavona de composee
- 1/2 drachm menthol crystals
- 1 drachm perfume

If you prefer, your druggist will do the mixing for you. This widely known formula is the best thing you can possibly use. It does not leave the hair greasy or oily. It instantly relieves scalp itching, cleanses and cools the scalp, has a very mild, pleasant odor, and is delightful to use. It beautifies the hair wonderfully. It is not a dye and cannot stain or injure the hair or scalp. The above formula was originated some eight or nine years ago by one of the most successful hair and scalp specialists in New York City. Finally the formula came out in one of the newspapers. After that it was published in leading newspapers everywhere in America and abroad. It is estimated that three to four million people have used it. Very likely some of your own friends are familiar with this formula.

EGGS 75c A DOZEN

Scarcity of Eggs Will Be Felt More This Winter Than Ever Before.

Market reports from the East announce that eggs are commanding 75c a dozen in many localities, and that soon no eggs may be for sale anywhere at less than sixty cents a dozen.

This condition will lead to curtailing the use of eggs for cooking and baking. But blessings sometimes come in disguise—and if this egg famine obliges the American woman to get along with fewer eggs for a season, she will find that doing four to six eggs in making a cake has been only a wonderful extravagance.

Here is a recipe for making a delicious cake and only one egg is used. Ladies who have made this One-Egg Cake are enthusiastic about it.

Put one egg yolk and white into a cup. Half fill cup with melted butter. Then fill to top with milk. Mix thoroughly. Put into mixing bowl 1 cup sugar, 1 1/2 cups flour, 1 heaping teaspoonful baking powder. Now mix wet and dry ingredients together and beat three minutes. Add a little vanilla for flavoring. This makes two layers. After baking your cake layers, make your icing with Snow-Mellow, the new dainty which can be used so economically in cake making.

Snow-Mellow makes the most delicious icings, or a rich, thick, tender icing for your layer cakes without eggs and without cooking. Just make your Snow-Mellow icing or filling—using no eggs—according to the plain, simple directions which come inside every package of Snow-Mellow.

So, as you do not need any white eggs for your Snow-Mellow filling or icing—you don't need to break several eggs to get the yolks for making the cake layers. Save the Eggs! Make cake layers by this recipe—using only one egg for the whole cake.

Clip out this cake recipe right now. Then get your package of Snow-Mellow quick at your grocery or delicatessen store. Your Snow-Mellow cake will be the finest you have ever set on your table.

AGED LADY LONG A RESIDENT DIES

Mrs. James Smith Who Has Been Here 55 Years Dead at Her Home

After an illness of twelve weeks caused by old age and a complication of diseases, Mrs. James Smith, 1115 11th street, died yesterday afternoon. She was 72 years of age.

Mrs. Smith was born in Ireland, October 10, 1841, coming to this country when but three years of age. She has lived in La Crosse for fifty-five years. Her maiden name was Mary Cavanaugh.

Surviving her are four daughters and one son. They are Mrs. Mary Lane and Mrs. Charles Rice of Minneapolis; Mrs. John Murphy of St. Paul; Mrs. William Hawley, Newark, N. J.; and James H. Smith of this city.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow morning at 8:15 from the St. James church, Rev. Father Ambrose Murphy will officiate. Burial will take place at the Catholic cemetery.

This Home-Made Cough Syrup Will Surprise You
Costs Little, but there is Nothing Better at any Price. Fully Guaranteed.

Here is a home-made remedy that takes hold of a cough almost instantly, and will usually conquer an ordinary cough in 24 hours. This recipe makes a pint—enough for a whole family. You couldn't buy as much or as good ready-made cough syrup for $2.50.

Mix one pint of granulated sugar with 1/2 pint of warm water, and stir 2 minutes. Put 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex (fifty cents' worth) in a pint bottle, and add the Sugar Syrup. This keeps perfectly and has a pleasant taste—children like it. Braces up the appetite and is a slightly laxative, which helps end a cough.

You probably know the medical value of pine in treating bronchial asthma, bronchitis, spasmodic croup and whooping cough. Pinex is a most valuable concentrated compound of Norway and white pine extract, rich in gualacal and other natural healing pine elements. Other preparations will not work in this combination.

The prompt results from this inexpensive remedy have made friends for it in thousands of homes in the United States and Canada, which explains why the plan has been imitated often, but never successfully.

A guaranty of absolute satisfaction, or money promptly refunded, goes with this preparation. Your druggist has Pinex or will get it for you. If not, send to The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

SPOTLIGHTS.

THE GOVERNOR'S LADY

Judging from the advance sale of seats for the engagement of Alice Bradley's political romance, "The Governor's Lady," which comes to the La Crosse Theater next Friday, Nov. 21, a large and brilliant audience will be on hand. Coming here as it does from a successful run of more than half a year at the Republic Theater, New York, "The Governor's Lady" presents David Belasco in association with William Elliott, who makes his initial bow as a producer, and who becomes a co-manager with the famous stage manager and playwright. "The Governor's Lady" is in three acts and an epilogue, and has to do with the efforts of a wife to keep pace with the social development of her husband. Its most unique stage effect is an exact representation of a Child's restaurant in New York, which is said to be a masterpiece of reality and detail. In fact, the entire stag is reported to be up to the usual high standard of productions sponsored by Mr. Belasco.

LILLIAN RUSSELL

John Cort's Feature Festival with its own special orchestra and forty famous artists, headed by the renowned beauty, Lillian Russell, to be seen in this city Saturday, matinee and night at the La Crosse Theater, is called Feature Festival, because there are numerous all-star specialties in the attraction, but the amusement is not strictly a vaudeville entertainment as vaudeville is ordinarily interpreted these days. A cheap moving picture show with two or three variety performers is nowadays referred to as vaudeville, and John Cort's Feature Festival, it is said, costs the intrepid impresario as much as grand opera. The program clearly enlightens the auditor as to the magnitude of the Cort attraction, the names enrolled representing the highest class of artists in their respective lines of work. Miss Russell's company includes every sort of theatrical amusement—tragedy, comedy, drama, pantomime, burlesque, character-acting, singing, dancing, opera, spectacle, magic, etc. and in selecting the artists for this varied program Mr. Cort spared neither means or money to secure the premiere of each department. Miss Russell's weekly financial exaction alone amounts to more than the total required to exploit the ordinary first class dramatic attraction and the combined salaries of the forty artists would more than finance the most magnificent of grand opera program.

ETHEL MAY, THE MYSTERY GIRL

The great sensation made by Miss Ethel May, "The Mystery Girl," on her previous visit some few years ago in La Crosse as a special vaudeville feature with the Van Dyke and Eaton Co. is well remembered by all La Crosse, and the announcement that Miss May will return for one week starting next Sunday matinee is met with overwhelming delight.

Since the appearance of Miss May here, she has played the principal cities in Europe and the United States. Miss May will appear at every performance and answer all questions free.

"East Lynne" will be presented to night. The Stock company will rest on Friday and Saturday and open on Sunday matinee in Bertha M. Clay's famous play, "Thorns and Orange Blossoms."

OWEN DOWNFALL TO PLAY

Cringing in the "death house" at Sing Sing, Lieut. Charles Becker, the convicted assassin-policeman, curses the zephyr of fate that caused Paul Armstrong and Wilson Mizner to pen the greatest "crook" drama of the age, "The Deep Purple." It was this play that set off the train of gunpowder that resulted in the Rosenthal murder and the subsequent exposure of the metropolitan police.

Armstrong has a faculty of delving into the byways of life in his quest of material. The methods used by many New York police officers to extort money from the criminal classes was unearthed during his search for "atmosphere" that resulted in "The Deep Purple." The playwright was instrumental in sending the crooked guardian of the law into the valley of death. District Attorney Whitman declared at the Becker trial that much of the evidence had been unearthed by Armstrong. Several unique situations in "The Deep Purple" are founded on actual occurrences unearthed by Armstrong at that time.

"The Deep Purple" with its entire original New York and Chicago production will be visible at the Majestic for four days starting next Sunday matinee.

The ladies of the Rushford Lutheran church will give their annual lutefish supper at the church basement Thursday next, November 20. This supper is one of Rushford's annual events, eagerly awaited by a large part of the citizens, to whom the "lutefish" is a national dish.

The farmers' meeting held last week at the agricultural room of the Rushford high school building was well attended and a general interest was aroused. The matter of forming a co-operative stock shipping association took a substantial form when there were elected as temporary officers the following: President, Henry Wilson; secretary, Ambrose Johnson.

BRAKEMAN FALLS AND IS CRUSHED

George Griffin Ground Beneath Wheels of Milwaukee Freight Train Last Night

Falling from the top of a swiftly moving freight train as it rounded a curve, last night, near Minnesota City, Minn., George Griffin, 28, C. M. & St. P. railroad brakeman, was decapitated under the wheels, and his body ground to pieces. Griffin's head has not been found.

Only a meager report reached the north side offices of the road this morning.

Griffin was head brakeman on an extra freight train running out of here yesterday afternoon about five o'clock. Conductor Painter and Engineer Tiffany were in charge of the train.

According to a report telephoned to the north side this morning from Winona, by a person on the train, Griffin had been "kicking" coal for the fireman the greater part of the way from North La Crosse.

Probably from being tired, according to Tiffany, he crawled to the top of the water tank, immediately in the rear of the coal and was sitting down.

As the train made a decided curve, the fireman crawled to the top of the coal pile, and discovering that Griffin was missing, he told the engineer. The train was stopped.

The crew starting a search, found Griffin's headless body halfway between the engine and caboose, but a long search failed to reveal the head.

The body was taken to Minneapolis. Griffin has a brother working on the Milwaukee, running in and out of the city. He is well known, and liked among railroad men throughout the system.

TRAPPER DIES IN TRAP SET BY SELF

DENVER, Colo., Nov. 20.—Caught by both arms in his own bear trap while on a hunting trip in the mountains near Embudo, New Mexico, Henry Severson, formerly of Denver, fought against death by starvation and thirst or wild animals for several days before he finally succumbed.

News of the finding of his body, torn into shreds by the claws of mountain lions and wildcats, has just been received here by friends. Severson was wealthy and had many friends in Denver.

A few days ago a party of hunters stumbled across the body, stripped of flesh and lying in the snow.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Noem, who spent the past week in Minneapolis, have returned to their home, 1711 Charles street.

Save the Babies.

INFANT MORTALITY is something frightful. We can hardly realize that of all the children born in civilized countries, twenty-two per cent., or nearly one-quarter, die before they reach one year; thirty-seven per cent., or more than one-third, before they are five, and one-half before they are fifteen!

We do not hesitate to say that a timely use of Castoria would save a majority of these precious lives. Neither do we hesitate to say that many of these infantile deaths are occasioned by the use of narcotic preparations. Drops, tinctures and soothing syrups sold for children's complaints contain more or less opium or morphine. They are, in considerable quantities, deadly poisons. In any quantity, they stupefy, retard circulation and lead to congestions, sickness, death. Castoria operates exactly the reverse, but you must see that it bears the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. Castoria causes the blood to circulate properly, opens the pores of the skin and allays fever.

NOSE AND HEAD STOPPED UP FROM COLD OR CATARRH, OPEN AT ONCE

My Cleansing, Healing Balm Instantly Clears Nose, Head and Throat—Stops Nasal Catarrhal Discharges. Dull Headache Goes

Try "Ely's Cream Balm." Get a small bottle of "Ely's Cream Balm" at any drug store. This sweet, fragrant balm dissolves by the heat of the nostrils; penetrates and heals the inflamed, swollen membrane which lines the nose, head and throat; clears the air passages; stops nasal discharges and a feeling of cleansing, soothing relief comes immediately.

Don't lay awake tonight struggling for breath, with head stuffed, nostrils closed, hawking and blowing. Catarrh or a cold, with its running nose, foul mucous dropping into the throat, and raw dryness is distressing but truly needless.

Put your faith—just once—in "Ely's Cream Balm" and your cold or catarrh will surely disappear.

LA FOLLETTE BACK FOR FLYING VISIT

Senator Breaks Lecture Long Enough to Spend Twelve Hours in Madison

MADISON, Wis., Nov. 20.—(Special.)—Senator La Follette spent twelve hours in Madison yesterday at the home of his brother-in-law, Judge E. G. Siebeck, returning to Ohio late yesterday afternoon to meet a speaking engagement. The senator's visit was unexpected. He concluded a lecture engagement in Indiana and had a day to spare, and he concluded to come here to visit Judge Siebeck, who has been ill at his home for three weeks past.

Political followers were amazed today to learn of the senator's visit. His tour now takes him back toward Washington and he will not be in Madison again until the holidays. The senator appeared to be in his old-time health, and said that he "never felt better." He admitted that he was glad to get a chance to appear again on the lecture platform and said that he was greeted with large audiences everywhere.

The senator was at his down-town office less than two hours. Most of his time was spent at the Siebeck home. He had a long talk with his law partner, Alfred T. Rogers, and then slipped out of Madison. Many of his associates here did not learn of the visit until after he had departed.

Mortified By Pimply Face

Stuart's Calcium Wafers Will Restore Good Looks and a Clear Complexion to Your Face

There is no humiliation so intense as the knowledge that people are constantly noticing the pimply condition of your face. Women, especially, realizing the attraction of personal beauty and longing as every woman does, for admiration and love, find the source of the greatest unhappiness and misery. They know that even to their own families their pimples are annoying, and they imagine they are the laughing stock of every stranger.

Don't Be Ashamed to Show Your Face. Stuart's Calcium Wafers Will Drive Away All Pimples and Skin Eruptions.

We have a message of hope for every sufferer from these annoying eruptions—today—at once—you may see the beginning of the end of this humiliating experience. Tomorrow when you look in the glass, you will begin to see a difference and before a week has gone by, every pimple will know its master.

Pimples, rashes, blackheads, liver spots and other skin eruptions are caused by impurities in the blood. Stuart's Calcium Wafers cure these by cleansing the blood of all impurities. These little wafers assimilated into the blood go right to the spot until every drop of blood in your body has been purified. And with a pure blood supply, your skin will become clear and beautiful with a rapidity that would hardly seem creditable, had it not been so often testified.

Nature intended that every woman should have a fine, soft skin with a beautiful, glowing complexion. Somehow your blood has become vitiated and full of impurities and your face has suffered for it. But with Stuart's Calcium Wafers, you can cleanse your blood and restore your face to its natural beauty. Get a 50c box of our druggist today and be one of the vast army of people who thank Stuart's Calcium Wafers daily for a beautiful complexion.

"The Neighbors" Among Those to Be Presented by Wisconsin Players at the Normal

Writing the Play Book immediately after the appearance of the Wisconsin Players in Chicago, Hamlin Garland, noted author, has to say of Zona Gale's one act play, "The Neighbors": "The chief interest in the engagement . . . lay in the production of 'The Neighbors.' It delighted me to see how quickly and warmly the audience responded to the best that was in it. . . . In order that I may not be misquoted, I repeat, this play is not a masterpiece, but we must begin somewhere, and 'The Neighbors' . . . had something in it which was not only distinctive of a western village, but something whimsically individual, and it was played with delightful understanding. There were moments when the character work of the actors quite equalled the Irish players in humor and in naturalness."

"The Neighbors" will be seen at the normal school on Friday evening.

present time. The cost of track elevation through this district would be enormous. The drawings show that the damage to adjoining property resulting from track elevation would be very heavy. The railway company would suffer severely if the tracks were elevated. The roundhouse, coal shed, coal trestle, boiler house, water tank, hose house, oil house, stock yard and depot, in fact all of the railway company's terminal buildings would be completely "bottled up." Grades on all tracks leading to the roundhouse, coal sheds, boiler house, etc., would necessarily be very heavy in order to connect with the elevated tracks.

"The above statement indicates that track elevation at this point would not be a simple matter, but would involve reconstruction of the railway company's plant in addition to raising the track. This would add greatly to the expense involved and to the time necessary for the completion of the work.

Would Cost Millions

"No detailed estimate has been worked out for this scheme, but a rough estimate indicates that the cost would approach closely the sum of $1,000,000. It may be stated positively that present conditions do not justify any such expenditure, the interest on which at 5 per cent would be $50,000 per year. This interest, in two years, would more than pay the cost of building a permanent bridge at Rose street and in four years would pay for a subway at Mill street. From an estimate based upon traffic studies made at Mill street and Rose street, it appears that about 2,000,000 people cross the tracks in one direction or the other each year. This estimate includes the traffic on all of the streets that are open. The interest charges therefore would amount to 2½ cents per person every time one crossed the track."

The commission contends that "the choice narrows down to the two projects that have received the most consideration, namely, a viaduct at Rose street or a subway at Mill street. From the standpoint of cost the two projects compare as follows: "1—Mill street subway with a raise of railway tracks of four feet at Mill street and using 4 per cent grades on the subway approaches, $182,000.

"2—Rose street viaduct designed for double track street railway and with 4 per cent grades on the approaches, $83,000.

"These figures are based upon the best information available at this time. Both the city and the railway company have submitted estimates which have been checked and compared with the commission's figures in order to arrive at as close an estimate as possible.

Arguments for Subway

"The arguments for the subway at Mill street are: (1) The street crossings at Mill street and Rose street are so close together that eventually as grade separation proceeds, one or the other will probably be closed and it will be advisable to close Rose street rather than Mill street; (2) a greater portion of the traffic would use the Mill street subway than could be induced to use a viaduct at Rose street; (3) the subway would settle the crossing problem at Mill street permanently."

After discussing various arguments the commission says:

"It is plain, therefore, that while a subway at Mill street would certainly 'eliminate' the grade crossing itself, it would not necessarily eliminate the possibility of accident which really is the vital thing concerned. The possibility of accident to that portion of the traffic that, for one reason or another, refused to use the subway, would not be eliminated but merely transferred to another crossing.

"Although a viaduct at Rose street will not 'eliminate' the Mill street crossing, it will reduce the possibility of accident at that crossing to a normal degree, at the same time affording a safe crossing for all classes of traffic that desire safety."

The commission also points out that the difference in cost between the subway at Mill street and the Rose street viaduct is $100,000 in favor of the latter.

The specifications call for a steel viaduct guaranteed to hold the heaviest cars and handle a great amount of traffic.

LOCKE TO LAUNCH NEW STORE SOON

A new venture of a unique kind in La Crosse is to be launched Saturday, when B. F. Locke will open his new Women's Exchange, in the building formerly occupied by the Schulz confectionery on Main street.

The exchange is primarily for the purpose of providing a market for women's products, such as preserves, bread, etc. Mr. Locke, however, aims to accomplish more than this. He has a thoroughly equipped tea room, and will serve lunches. His ability as a caterer has been amply demonstrated while he was manager of the Caeron House.

The exchange will also make a specialty of first class ice cream and candies.

DIES OF WOUND GIVEN IN FIGHT

Burlington Laborer Shot in De Soto Brawl Saturday Dies Here

After lying since Sunday morning at the point of death, with a bullet in his abdomen, John Sullivan, a Burlington railroad laborer, residing at De Soto, Minn., died last night at the Lutheran hospital, as the result of a shooting scrape which occurred last Saturday.

According to eye witnesses, Sullivan with a party of men who were in the same gang doing railroad work near De Soto, had indulged in a drunken brawl.

A fellow worker taking offense at a remark on the part of Sullivan, threatened to thrash him. No more was said at the time, but later the man concealed himself inside an empty box car and shot Sullivan, who was walking past the car.

The laborer was arrested and taken to Prairie du Chien, where he was lodged in jail, and Sullivan was brought to this city.

Physicians held out hope for his recovery until early last night, when he became decidedly worse, and within a short time died.

Little is known here of his relatives. They have been notified, and will probably arrive tonight or tomorrow, when funeral arrangements will be made. The man who did the shooting will be held on a charge of manslaughter.

MEXICAN CRISIS APPROACHES AS CONGRESS MEETS

gress, whose legality Washington questions, resumed its session. Huerta was to deliver his regular message. The entire diplomatic corps, with one notable exception, Nelson O'Shaughnessy, American charge were to be present. And not a single high official of the government would venture a guess on just what would happen there.

Hale to Report

The whole story of the killing of unarmed prisoners of war by order of General Villa at Juarez will be in the hands of President Wilson within forty-eight hours. Dr. William Bayard Hale has sent word to Washington that his report of the entire negotiations with Carranza, including the explanation of Villa's actions, will soon be forthcoming. Whether he will come here to make a verbal report, or has already started it by mail, is not known. It is considered certain, however, that negotiations with Carranza are definitely at an end.

LAREDO, Texas, Nov. 20.—Four troops of the Third cavalry were today ordered from Fort Sam Houston by General Bliss to strengthen the border patrol at Laredo now composed of one battery and a troop of the Fourteenth cavalry.

Bryan reiterated today that O'Shaughnessy will be continued in Mexico City unless handed his passports by Huerta or the lives of other Americans would be endangered by remaining. In the event of the emergency, O'Shaughnessy knows just what would be expected of him.

There was no explanation forthcoming from the state department today regarding the action of Great Britain in sending three cruisers to Vera Cruz.

It is admitted that the rear admiral commanding the British squadron will outrank Rear Admiral Fletcher, commanding the American warships. But no complications are looked for from this fact.

The suggestion that Admiral Dewey will be sent to assume command of the fleet in eastern Mexican waters was scouted at the navy department.

Fletcher is in constant touch with the oil fields near Tuxpan, which are threatened by the constitutionalists and has been instructed to protect all foreign interests. It is not believed that England, though British property is damaged, will land marines or blue jackets anywhere on Mexican soil.

THINK HUNTER KILLED

MARINETTE, Wis., Nov. 20.—Authorities today began searching for William Terry, 24, of Kalamazoo, Mich., believed to have been killed while hunting deer near Northland, Mich. He has been missing since Sunday.

SEES SECOND "TRUST"

BELL PHONE COMPANY ATTORNEY CHARGES THAT ASSOCIATION OF INDEPENDENTS IS MONOPOLY

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—Charges that the Independent Telephone Association of America, an organization of "independents," is itself a monopoly, were made by General Counsel E. S. Pillsbury, of the Pacific States Telephone company at the hearing today before a special examiner in the government's prosecution of the American Telegraph & Telephone company under the Sherman anti-trust act.

A. S. Vivian of Grand Rapids, Mich., secretary of the independent organization, resumed the stand today to testify against the A. T. & T. and was cross-examined by Pillsbury. Vivian admitted that the independent had adopted a uniform standard of telephone construction and bought their supplies from certain manufacturers. It is said that concerted action in buying was necessary for the independents to combat the alleged "trust."

PREFERS PARTISAN TO 'MUGWUMPS'

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Nov. 20.—Secretary of the Navy Daniels, speaking here today, outlined a new freedom. He declared it involves the elimination of sectional prejudice and an independence in political thinking which does not brand a man of opposite party as a traitor.

"I hope we shall never have a spineless race of mugwumps who are moved by every kind of doctrine and have no fixed convictions on great public questions," he declared. "Better the narrow partisan who has a robust faith than the dilettante mugwump who votes by whim or prejudice."

SUICIDES UNDER TRAIN TO ESCAPE POLICE CAPTURE

RACINE, Wis., Nov. 20.—While the police of Racine and Kenosha were scouring the two towns in search of Edward Frederichsen, 23, who in a fit of jealous rage shot at his best girl and split her skull with the revolver, the fugitive deliberately threw himself in front of a Northwestern freight train Wednesday evening and was literally ground to pieces. His identity was not established for several hours.

LADY BODYGUARD FOR PANKHURST

LONDON, Nov. 20.—The Woman's Social and Political union today announced the organization of a militant suffrage police force. The women, uniformed and armed, will be commanded by "General" Mrs. Flora Drummond. The purpose of the force is to form a bodyguard to meet Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst when she lands at Plymouth on December 3 on her return from the United States. Mrs. Pankhurst is a fugitive to the extent that her license from Holloway jail expired months ago. The home office showed no disposition to rearrest her when she sailed for France, but the militant police intend to protect her being rearrested at Plymouth. They will act as a guard for her continuously and will resist forcibly, they assert, any attempt to take her.

Bureau of Labor Finds 66.1 Per Cent Increase in Cost of Living in Ten Years

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—The groundwork of information upon which congress may be asked to institute an investigation into the high cost of living is being acquired from at least three sources, it became known here today, coincident with the publication by the bureau of labor, statistics of figures showing the greatest prices for food staples in twenty-three years.

The sources are: Collateral probe of living costs in conjunction with the bureau of corporations probe of the trust question. Inquiry into the feasibility of co-operative marketing and elimination of the middleman, through the marketing commission, department of agriculture.

Investigation of comparative clothing costs in this country and abroad by department of commerce.

The bulletin issued today by the bureau of labor statistics shows that fifteen articles constituting the main features of the workingman's bill of fare were at a higher level August 15 than at any time in twenty-three years. The prices were 66.1 per cent above the ten year average from 1890 to 1899.

Statistics showed that only sugar, wheat flour and cornmeal had decreased in the past year, whereas the following increases were noted: Potatoes, 20 per cent; bacon, 18.8; smoked ham, 17.6; eggs, 12.6; round steak, 11.5; sirloin steak, 10.2; pork chops, 9.3; hens, 8.7; lamb, 8.1; rib roast, 7.9; butter, 5.7; milk, 2.7.

Decreases were: Sugar, 7.9; wheat flour, 5.5; cornmeal, 2.7.

BARRY'S CONTRACT IS NOT ILLEGAL

In the West Salem insurance cases lately yesterday the court ruled positively that the contract by which Arthur Barry, the Milwaukee attorney, agreed to become counsel for the insurance companies, was not illegal. It is said that Mr. Barry asked for the dismissal of the cases because he felt that, although justified by the court, his case would have been prejudiced in the eyes of the jury by the arguments, while, while they did not accord with the court's opinion, were so emphatic as to have created an unfair impression.

The reference to Mr. Barry having agreed to "pay the expenses" referred to an agreement to pay the amount incurred in securing evidence as to the facts, but the letter in which he solicited the business distinctly stipulated that he would pay none of the costs of the action.

Pine for Colds

Old Time Formula That Has Cured Thousands Here

The use of pine in medicine dates back to the time of Moses. But the best prescription for the purest pine extract is as follows: "From your druggist get two ounces of Glycerine and half an ounce of Globe Pine Compound (Concentrated Pine). Take these two ingredients home and put them into a half pint of good whiskey. Shake well and take one to two teaspoonfuls after each meal and at bed time." Smaller doses to children according to age. This treatment often knocks the worst cough or cold in a day. But be sure to get only the genuine, Globe Pine Compound (Concentrated Pine). Each half ounce bottle comes in a sealed tin screw-top case. If your druggist does not have it in stock he will quickly get it. Don't experiment with cheap uncertain mixtures. Druggist says this has had a marvelous demand for the past six years. Published by the Globe Pharmaceutical laboratories of Chicago.

BIG LAND SHOW OPENS

THOUSANDS OF FARMERS FROM ALL PARTS OF MIDDLE WEST FLOCK TO EXPOSITION AT CHICAGO COLISEUM

CHICAGO, Nov. 20.—Thousands of farmers from all parts of the middle west flocked into Chicago today for the opening of the United States Land show at the Coliseum. The exhibition, one of the most picturesque that is staged here annually, will continue until December 6.

The flash of an electric star, touched off by President Wilson at the White House in Washington, declared the show officially open.

The feature of the show this year that excited the most comment was the marked invasion of the west by the east. New York, West Virginia, Maryland and Ohio were represented with displays of the "fruits of the soil," rivaling those of any of the western or southern states.

The color scheme of the exhibition was brown and green. In this setting, fanciful displays of fruits, cereals and vegetables were arranged to make the Coliseum a miniature "market place" for all the agricultural and horticultural products of North America. A band of twenty-five Ojibway Indians, presenting a dramatization of Longfellow's poem, "Hiawatha" constituted the chief entertainment feature of the show. The purpose of the land show is to encourage the science of agriculture, and furnish the various sections of the United States and Canada with an opportunity of showing prospective settlers the advantages of the soil.

FLAY KIDNEYS TO STOP POISONINGS

NEW YORK, Nov. 20.—For the second time since the bichloride of mercury poison wave swept across the country, a radical operation today bade fair to save the victim's life.

Surgeons at Fordham hospital last night removed the coverings from the kidneys of Mrs. Thelma Pleasant, who had taken mercury the previous Monday, and flushed them of the poison. Today it was declared she would recover despite the fact that the operation was performed when the patient was near death.

The first successful operation of this sort was performed last week upon Mrs. Jacob Jannon, a society woman of West Brighton. Physicians today said she was taking solid food and was out of all danger.

No Whips Allowed in Moscow.

Among the curious things that arrest the traveler's attention on arriving in Moscow is the fact that drivers of cabs, carriages and all sorts of vehicles do not carry whips. There is a law prohibiting their use. The excellent condition of their horses attests the benefit of this humane law. Nowhere are there sleeker and better groomed horses than those used in the carriages of Moscow.

Impossible to Tell All.

"Will you solemnly swear that the testimony you shall give shall be the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth?" "No; I won't swear to anything of the kind," answered the man who had been a witness in several big cases. "The lawyers won't let me tell half the truth."—Legal Journal.

Appreciation.

"That picture," said the collector, "is a thousand years old." "My!" exclaimed Mrs. Cumrox, as she poised her lorgnette. "It wears well, doesn't it?"

Chicago Grain Review CHICAGO, Nov. 20.—Wheat started with an advance of 1/4c for May and 3/4c for December delivery, inspired by strength at Liverpool. Large receipts at the northwest markets, however, offset the bullish European news and in the forenoon session, December lost a fraction and May fell below last night's closing figures.

Corn had good support at the start and most of the morning, but at noon prices were substantially those at yesterday's close. A higher cable and soft weather over most of America were the bull factors.

Oats opened a shade firmer because of the opening strength in corn and wheat, but the demand was only moderate with fair offerings and at noon prices were back at yesterday's closing figures.

Provisions started higher, influenced by the advance in hogs, but heavy selling on the advance caused a reaction toward noon and prices declined.

Afternoon trading in the pits was featureless, all futures closing at about noon prices.

Provisions firmed in the afternoon and closed only a trifle below the opening figures.

TICKET SCALPING FOR MAROON GAME

Badger Students Feel Serious Injustice Done by Chicago Authorities

MADISON, Wis., Nov. 2.—The University of Chicago authorities are apparently "putting over" a ticket scalping scandal in connection with the Wisconsin-Chicago game on Saturday.

The affair hits the Wisconsin student hardest, Stung by criticism that they only support the team when winning, the Badgers have been full of enthusiasm, and are standing back of the team to a man.

If the tickets could be procured at the student rate of 50 cents in Madison, 2,000 or 3,000 students would take advantage of it. But the Chicago authorities, after announcing that 1,000 seats had been sent, failed in their promise, and only 400 arrived, though the full thousand had been reserved by the students within three hours after the sale opened. The next day, 400 more were promised, but they were not sent.

Yesterday a block of 600 arrived, but the athletic department already had orders for several hundred more than that number, and many more orders turned down. As if this were not bad enough, the seats are scattered all over the field, instead of doing the sportsmanlike thing of grouping the rooters of Wisconsin in a bunch, so that they could cheer with some effectiveness.

Today advertisements appeared in Chicago of brokers in the Morrison and other loop district hotels, announcing tickets for the game at from $3 to $5 apiece. The regular price of the tickets is only $2, and to students, 50 cents. The Chicago authorities attempted to explain the scalping by stating that they were imposed upon by Northwestern students, who sold the tickets to scalpers.
